CENTURION CELEBRATES THE LAUNCH OF ITS NEW SPEECH RECOGNITION PACKAGE

TAMPA (August 3, 2009) – Centurion Inc. of Oldsmar FL. has rolled out a new speech recognition package for its Interactive Voice Response Financial Application “Next Teller”. This package allows for financial institutions to provide voice interaction to its callers rather than touch tone responses.

The Next Teller Interactive Voice Response (IVR) from leading computer telephony integration provider Centurion, combined with Nuance’s speech recognition technology allows for a life like speech interaction through the IVR.

Centurion has spent a number of years studying and working with speech recognition technology. “We wanted to launch a superior product that would allow our clients a workable solution, not just another piece of technology,” said Kirk Wormington, VP Financial Markets Centurion. “While developing our new speech package, we made it our number one priority to make caller interaction with Next Teller as life like and trouble free as possible. I must say I am really proud of our team here at Centurion”, says Wormington, “We have the superior speech recognition product for this industry.”
